Phase 1: The Role I was Made For.

Where do you come from?

Always knew I would change, and I always knew I would be part of my mother's advisory group.

Phase 2: Friendship Is Important, But I Choose My People First

Becoming a protagonist:

Forced to arbitrate between the Snow Wolf cousins in our teen years, I choose neither view. There may be some brittleness there, as shifting and roaring were involved.

Phase 3: Everybody Trusts Reliable Bob

What was your first adventure? (Babes in the Woods)

When mischievous wild-fae lead a small group of children into the forest, can Bob find them before they fall prey to a ghoulish family camping nearby? Can he hide the supernatural world from them on the way home?

Phase 4: Ain't Above Tricking People Into Doing What's Good For 'Em.

Whose path have you crossed? (Monty)

Made sure she was made Sheriff instead of me.

Phase 5: You'd Be Amazed How Often I get Mistaken For a Ranger
